Synopsis

Divia is a meditative, sound-driven journey through a wounded land – an elemental portrait of Ukraine before, during, and beyond the full-scale invasion. Without dialogue or narration, the film unfolds as a metaphysical symphony, where landscapes bear silent testimony to destruction and quiet resilience. Ashen forests, cratered fields, and the rusting skeletons of war machines haunt the frame – each image a trace of the violence etched into the soil. Yet even here, nature does not halt. Seasons return. Grass pushes through scorched earth. Regeneration begins – slowly, insistently. Through this reverent silence move deminers, body searchers, environmentalists, and animal rescuers. Their presence, almost spectral, speaks of both grief and grace. Divia invites viewers into a space where beauty and devastation coexist, and where the act of witnessing becomes a form of renewal.

Synopsis The film tells the stories of students of a Kharkiv lyceum who survived the horrors of war. Through the children's appeals, teachers' and parents' memories, the viewer learns about the traumas that war leaves in children's souls. The film is a testament to the impact of the Russian aggression on schoolchildren living in basements under shelling.

ST NICHOLAS
SCRIPT AND DIRECTOR - ANDRII BURLAKA
In the enchanting realm of Lapland, St. Nicholas faces a poignant dilemma: the lack of letters from children. Determined to spread joy, he embarks on a remarkable journey to Ukraine, where the land scarred by conflict and he finds himself in a city nestled within the perilous "gray zone".
Here, amidst the echoes of gunfire, fate intertwines St. Nicholas with four lost children who bear the weight of fear and wish of displacement to his families. These children, torn from their families during the chaotic evacuation, cling to hope like fragile snowflakes caught in a tempest.
Mykola, as St. Nicholas is known in Ukraine, discerns the heartbreaking truth: the war has silenced the joyful scribbles of children's wishes.

Key projects

‘MEN FM’ – a philosophical comedy about a modern blogger and former cult radio host who once shaped public opinion. An unexpected call from a mysterious Insider during a live broadcast challenges his views, sparking ironic debates on social mobility and cultural trends.

‘Mountain of Freedom’ – a trilogy of feature-length documentaries highlighting various years of the international motorcycle festival Tarasova Gora. Established in 2002, this festival is Ukraine’s largest motorcycle event, held annually in early summer near Cherkasy, with a procession to Kaniv’s Taras Hill. Attracting bikers from Ukraine and beyond, it boasts international acclaim. Produced by GOPAK Films, the trilogy captures the festival’s atmosphere, showcases its participants and their stories, and delves into the philosophical and social facets of Ukraine’s biker culture. The films present a continuous philosophical mystery, inviting viewers to discover answers alongside the protagonists throughout the viewing experience.

The ‘Mountain of Freedom’ trilogy not only documents festival events but also deeply immerses viewers into the inner worlds of its participants – their experiences, dreams, and aspirations – creating a multifaceted portrait of Ukraine’s biker community.

Key projects

HiStory Teller System is a mobile 'Movie Club in a Smartphone' designed to boost the visibility and accessibility of films. It aggregates film information across streaming platforms and cinemas, streamlines ticket and subscription purchases, and fosters community through interactive features like watch parties, discussions, and quizzes. HSTS aims to connect audiences with cinema in the digital age, providing a centralised hub for discovery, engagement, and access.

'New Perspective' is a television show that explores the stories of women who have achieved success in traditionally 'male' professions. The host, Olena, a former beauty show star, is experiencing a career crisis and receives a chance for a career relaunch. She sets out to meet the heroines to showcase their struggle against stereotypes, professional achievements, and personal stories. Each episode is an immersion into a new profession and an introduction to a woman who has mastered it. The project inspires, breaks down gender stereotypes, and demonstrates that opportunities for women are limitless.

hro. pro Продакшн hromadske

Production of hromadske / hro.pro

hromadske.ua/production

Company profile

Production of hromadske / hro.pro is the production arm of Ukrainian independent media ‘hromadske’, working on creative video stories and develop exclusive formats. Within this division, the team handles video and film projects on an on-demand basis, creating exclusive content for different platforms, meeting the needs of our partners. Our formats include social stories, documentaries, report videos, studio projects and podcasts, educational projects, and other specialized formats. We adhere to the standards of media, presenting stories in an accessible and visually engaging way.

Services

- Production
- Postproduction
- VFX
- Adaptation, localization, translations
- Dubbing, voice-over, subtitling
- Studio complex

Company achievements

Production of hromadske works on the basis of the independent Ukrainian media ‘hromadske’, which was founded in 2013 by journalists to deliver important information to society independently and impartially through all available channels. The company consistently appears on the White List of Ukrainian media, adhering to all professional standards. One of achievements is documentary and reportage filmmaking across different regions of Ukraine, including frontline areas.

Key partners

International and Ukrainian filmmaking companies and distributors.

Key projects

- ‘After the Era of Silence’ (2025) – documentary film
  Created by Production of hromadske in partnership with the National Agency on Corruption Prevention and with the support of the EU Anti-Corruption Initiative (EUACI). The film traces Ukraine’s journey from the Soviet-era ‘culture of silence’ to the development of an independent anti-corruption infrastructure — from the Revolution of Dignity, street protests, and investigative journalism to the establishment and work of institutions such as NABU, SAPO, NACP, and the High Anti-Corruption Court. The film tells the story of the people and civic movement that challenge corruption every day, as well as the achievements and ongoing challenges in building a state governed by fair and effective rules for all.
- ‘Those Who Stay at Home’ (2025) – documentary series
  Created by Production of hromadske on commission from the National Public Broadcasting Company of Ukraine (Suspilne), portrays the everyday lives of Ukrainians who continue to live and work in frontline regions despite the war. Each of the five episodes introduces residents of one region located on the line of fire: Kherson, Mykolaiv, Chernihiv, Kharkiv, and Donetsk regions.
- ‘Getting Ours Back. How Ukrainians Lost and Revived the Infospace’ (2024) – documentary film
  The story of the development of the information and cultural sphere in different years of Ukraine’s independence – from the 90s to the present day. Media professionals explore why Russia has continued to influence the information and cultural sphere of independent Ukraine for decades, and how we are counteracting this today.
